The purpose of this policy is to ensure that all participants, potential or actual, of MacNellie's Workplace Safety courses are provided with full recognition of their current skills and knowledge.

MacNellie's Workplace Safety promotes acknowledgment of 'non-traditional' forms of learning as valid pathways for recognition of competency achievement during the RPL assessment process.

The recognition of prior learning (RPL) process conducted by MacNellie's Workplace Safety is an assessment process, which provides acknowledgement of all skills and knowledge gained through the life experiences, work experience, previous training and formal education of applicants.

As a registered training organisation MacNellie's Workplace Safety conducts the RPL process:

- By adopting a focus on the competencies held rather than on how, when or where the learning occurred;
- Through a demonstrated commitment to recognising the prior learning of adults;
- By providing access to the RPL process for all potential participants of courses;
- By offering RPL processes which are fair to all those involved; and
- By providing adequate support for all potential RPL applicants.

The RPL assessment process includes the initial provision of information, support and counselling, formal application, assessment, post-assessment guidance and certification for course participants. MacNellie's Workplace Safety automatically check all enrolment details for indications that participants may qualify for RPL, however participants who consider they have potential to qualify for RPL are expected to discuss the matter with us accordingly. The special needs of RPL applicants are recognised by MacNellie's Workplace Safety and we will make the necessary reasonable adjustments during the RPL assessment process where appropriate.

A variety of RPL assessment options will be available for potential applicants to identify whether they have achieved the necessary competencies/learning outcomes to the required standard in the relevant training course or program. All assessment mechanisms used are valid, reliable, flexible and fair and conducted in an ethical manner with a focus on collecting valid, sufficient, authentic and current evidence.

RPL Assessment Objectives

The key objectives of MacNellie's Workplace Safety RPL assessment process are to:

- Minimise duplication of learning, training or skill acquisition;
- Allow the completion of studies in the shortest possible time;
- Provide clear RPL outcomes and access to further learning/training and career development;

- Provide quality advice and support to potential and current applicants;
- Conduct the RPL process only in respect to courses for which MacNellie's Workplace Safety is registered to assess;

- Ensure RPL processes are monitored, evaluated and updated where appropriate;
- Advise RPL applicants of their right of appeal through the formal process; and
- Ensure fees and charges are fair and competitive with the industry standard.

All applications for RPL will be processed within 21 days of receipt of a completed application form with sufficient supporting evidence attached to enable a decision to be made regarding the granting of RPL. All RPL decisions will be supplied in writing to the applicant.
